National Conference

Improving Service Delivery through Information & Communication Technologies

December 15 & 16, 2012

PNBIIT Auditorium Vibhuti Khand, Gomti Nagar Lucknow

Organized by

Computer Society of India Lucknow Chapter

www.csi-lucknow.org

Co-hosted by PNBIIT, Lucknow Rapid advances in Information and Communication Technologies have made the information in voice, data, video and other formats accessible through devices such as Smart phones, tablets, laptops and personal computers. This has opened up a new realm of possibilities for provision of e-governance, entertainment, education, telemedicine, e-commerce, info-services, etc. ubiquitously. Responsive Governments in a democratic set up are expected to be committed to leveraging these advances in Information and Communication Technologies (ICT) for the benefit of the citizens, especially those in rural and remote areas.

A large number of initiatives have been undertaken and rolled out by various State Governments and Central Government to usher in an era of e-governance with the basic objective of bridging the gap of information availability to reduce the role of people who thrive on information arbitrage and play the role of middlemen and become a cause of friction in smooth and improved delivery of public services.

We invite papers on following theme areas-

- Scalable Architectures for eGovernance
- ICT Platforms and Architecture of Service Delivery
- Addressing the Digital Divide Universal Access Challenge
- Performance, high availability issues
- Storage architectures for large-scale data
- Integration challenges of Application Services
- Impact on education and health delivery
- Impact on banking, insurance and financial services
- Impact on poverty alleviation programs
- Impact on Public Service Delivery
- Mobile Apps for service delivery

The Programme Committee of eGov-12 invites papers for presentation at the conference on aforesaid topics.
